

What Is PAT Testing?

Portable Appliance Testing is more commonly known as PAT Testing. This is the method in which electrical appliances are tested and inspected for electrical safety.

Ultimately this ensures your equipment is in a safe condition ready for use.

Why Should You PAT Test?

There are many statutory regulations which place responsibility on Employers, Landlords, Construction Site Managers and Institutions etc.. The regulations state that you must provide a safe working environment for anyone who would be using Portable Electrical Appliances.

The list of Portable Appliances is extensive; however at a glance if the appliance can be unplugged from the electrical supply then it more than likely needs to be PAT Tested.

Should you be unsure of your legal responsibilities or simply require further information please contact us on 01438 743800, where one of our staff will be happy to assist you.

How We Can Help

At Best Electrical all of our PAT testing is carried out by engineers that hold the City and Guilds 2377 qualification.

What Does It Cost?

PAT Testing can be carried out for as little as £0.76 per test depending on volume of tests and at what time they are carried out. Our price also includes the undertaking of any minor repairs that may arise such as replacement fuses and plugstops.

Who Are We?

Best Electrical are an Electrical Contracting Company who are based in Hertfordshire. A core area of expertise is Electrical Compliance; we carry out various types of electrical safety inspections, surveys and reports throughout the country on a daily basis.

Please feel free to contact us for an instant quote, or if you require any further information on any of our other services.

All of our engineers are employed directly and we operate a strict no sub-contractor policy.

We use the latest industry standard test equipment and operate on a barcode labelling system (please see example).

This enables us to provide you with an accurate asset list of electrical appliances.

We then supply you with full certification in both electronic and paper format. Should you lose it don't panic you can download a copy for free using our interactive website.
